The New Italian Guitar: Roberto Fabbri

Roberto Fabbri is one of Italy's foremost guitar personalities, having an extremely active career as a fine performer, composer, teacher, publicist and writer. He was born in Rome in 1964 and studied under the guidance of Carlo Carfagna at the Conservatory of S. Cecilia where he graduated in 1986 with full honours. Apart from performing worldwide both as a soloist and with his guitar quartet Nexus, Roberto is Head of classical guitar at the academy Novamusica e Arte in Rome. He is also a main contributor to the magazine Chitarre and has written many didactic and educational works for publishing houses such as Anthropos, Berbén, Playgame, EMR and Warner Bros.

Programme: Mauro Giuliani, Francisco Tárrega, Leo Brouwer and Roberto Fabbri.
